ABSA International

History

Since the late 1950s, biological safety specialists have met at the Annual Biological Safety Conference. Disease outbreaks, the biotechnology revolution, occupationally acquired infections, bioterrorism, and the public perception of these events have established the need for a professional association that is concerned with the safety issues of biomedical, biotechnical, and biosecurity research and development.

ABSA International was incorporated in 1984 to become a global leader for providing professional and scientific expertise in the practice of biosafety and biosecurity. ABSA International's core purpose is dedicated to promoting and expanding biosafety and biosecurity expertise. ABSA International's core values: leading the profession; collaboration and community; promote biosafety as a scientific discipline; absolute integrity; and high standards of excellence.

ABSA International accomplishes these goals by sponsoring a quarterly journal, offering various educational courses, and hosting the Annual Biosafety and Biosecurity Conference. All are designed to keep members informed about regulatory initiatives, hazard recognition and management, risk communication, current biosafety and biosecurity publications, meetings, employment opportunities, etc.

ABSA International Members

ABSA International is comprised of over 1,400 institutional, corporate, and individual members from the U.S. and around the world. As a multi-disciplinary society, membership is open to all individuals interested or involved in any aspect of biosafety and/or biosecurity. The membership is comprised of biosafety and biosecurity professionals from virtually all major universities and representatives from federal, state, and local agencies, along with private laboratories, manufacturers, pharmaceutical companies, and distributors of biosafety and biosecurity equipment, both national and international.

ABSA International Conference

The 63rd Annual Biosafety and Biosecurity Conference will be held Saturday, October 31 – Thursday, November 5, 2020 at the JW Marriott Phoenix Desert Ridge in Phoenix, Arizona.
